

A color calibration chart featuring two rows of color patches. The top row consists of six distinct color patches: blue, green, red, yellow, magenta, and cyan. The bottom row consists of six grayscale patches, ranging from white to black. The patches are arranged in a grid format, used for ensuring color accuracy in digital imaging and printing.