

A photograph of a broken red wax seal. The seal is circular and features a central embossed design, possibly a coat of arms or a religious symbol. The wax is dark red and has been shattered into several pieces. A piece of white paper is visible, partially covered by the broken wax. The background is dark.

