

A close-up photograph of a book's binding. A piece of aged, yellowed paper or parchment is visible at the top. A strip of lighter, translucent material, possibly vellum or paper, is wrapped around the binding. A dark, circular, textured object, likely a metal clasp or seal, is visible on the right side, securing the binding. The background is dark and textured.