

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a signature or a note, located in the center of the document. The text is written on a piece of paper that is slightly torn and stained. The script is difficult to decipher but appears to be a personal or official communication.

